We have used the "letterbox library" to select texts that celebrate equality and diversity and address issues including gender, religion, race, disabilities, relationships and the environment. Through experiencing high quality picture books that address such issues children can discuss them in context and answer the following can I questions:

Can I understand that all relationships are different and accepted?

Can I be accepting of different religious beliefs?

Can I appreciate that all people are different and equal?

Can I respect the environment?

Can I value everyone's contribution to society?

Can I be understanding to the needs of others?
